Southern Crescent Technical College Arrives

Griffin, Georgia, July 1, 2010 –

On July 1, 2010, Griffin Technical College and Flint River Technical College officially became Southern Crescent Technical College.

“This first day of July, 2010 marks a monumental point in the history of Griffin Technical College and Flint River Technical College as we begin another chapter of growth which will enhance the lives of the people in our communities. Southern Crescent Technical College will continue to offer high quality, relevant technical training that will prepare our graduates to enter today’s highly-skilled workforce. We are excited about the opportunity to grow in these communities and increase our program offerings as well,” stated Dr. Ivan Allen, Interim President of Southern Crescent Technical College.

Griffin Technical College and Flint River Technical College was approved by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACS/COC) to merge at the December 2009 meeting. On July 1, 2009, the administration from both College’s merged and began operating as one. During the past year, the two colleges have been busy combining programs, policies, and procedures - laying the groundwork for Southern Crescent Technical College.

The mission of Southern Crescent Technical College is to provide technical degrees, diplomas and certificates, as well as programs in adult education, continuing education and workforce training that are high quality, community centered and student focused. The College provides learning opportunities that promote economic development in the southern crescent region of central Georgia.

The College's new website will be launched July 1, 2010 and will be www.sctech.edu.
